SHARE YOUR IDEAS. HELP IMPROVE TRANSPORTATION IN THE BALTIMORE REGION

Transportation affects each of us, each day, but not in the same way. That is why it is essential that a wide variety of individuals, businesses, and organizations are engaged in the regional transportation planning process and that their voices are heard.

Volunteering to serve on the Public Advisory Committee is a great way to give direct input to decision makers. It can also:

- ★ Help your community or organization get your voice heard
- ★ Learn new information and discuss important planning issues directly with staff and BRTB members
- ★ Shape regional planning by sharing new ideas or giving feedback

PUBLIC ADVISORY COMMITTEE

The Baltimore Regional Transportation Board's Public Advisory Committee (BRTB-PAC) is a diverse group of residents, representatives of community organizations, and industry professionals that provide essential independent, region-oriented advice regarding regional transportation planning and related issues. Members also assist in promoting equity and public awareness and public participation in the regional transportation planning process.

New members are appointed annually by the BRTB for 3-year terms, starting in January. Meetings are generally held on the 1st Wednesday of the month at 5:30 p.m. in Baltimore. In addition, all members serve on a subcommittee, which also meet monthly. The total volunteer commitment is typically 3-5 hours/month.
