KEY POINTS

- McCormick CEO Lawrence Kurzius said Thursday the spice maker's business in China has improved in recent weeks as that country emerges from the coronavirus outbreak.
- "We've lived all three phases of this crisis. Our China business is coming back," he said on CNBC's "Squawk on the Street."
- U.S. sales in March also have spiked, with Frank's Red Hot and French's mustard up more than 100, said Kurzius.
