Cooperative Forecasting Program

- Forecasting - purpose, history, process and performance
- New regional economic inputs and assumptions for Round 10.0
- Review and approval of the local Forecasts – COG Board of Directors – June 14, 2023

Cooperative Forecasting Program

- Established by COG in 1975, enables local, regional, and federal agencies to coordinate planning decisions using common assumptions about future growth
- Each series or “Round” provides forecasts of employment, population, and households by five-year increment for a period of 20 to 30 years.
- Official land use inputs for planning by the Transportation Planning Board (TPB), Metropolitan Washington Air Quality Committee (MWAQC), Climate Energy Environment Policy Committee (CEEPC), and others.

COG Cooperative Forecasting Process

Elements of Developing Round 10.0

- Review existing economic conditions—global, national and regional
- Provide “base year” employment and housing data to member jurisdictions
- Develop “Benchmark” Regional Econometric Model Forecast to new horizon year (2050)
- Reconcile jurisdictional projections with Regional Econometric Model Forecast
- Compile local government 2020 to 2050 TAZ forecasts

Round 10.0 Econometric Model (S & P Global)

- Economic projections of jobs, population and housing to 2050
 - Each state modeled individually and linked to the nation.
 - Net migration (population and household growth) driven by economic conditions.
People will follow jobs.
 - Wage & salary job forecasts by sector for COG region
 - Population forecast by age cohort for COG region
- “Benchmark” regional growth to which COG member forecasts are reconciled

Office Utilization Trends

(Source: ICF, Brookings, and COG)

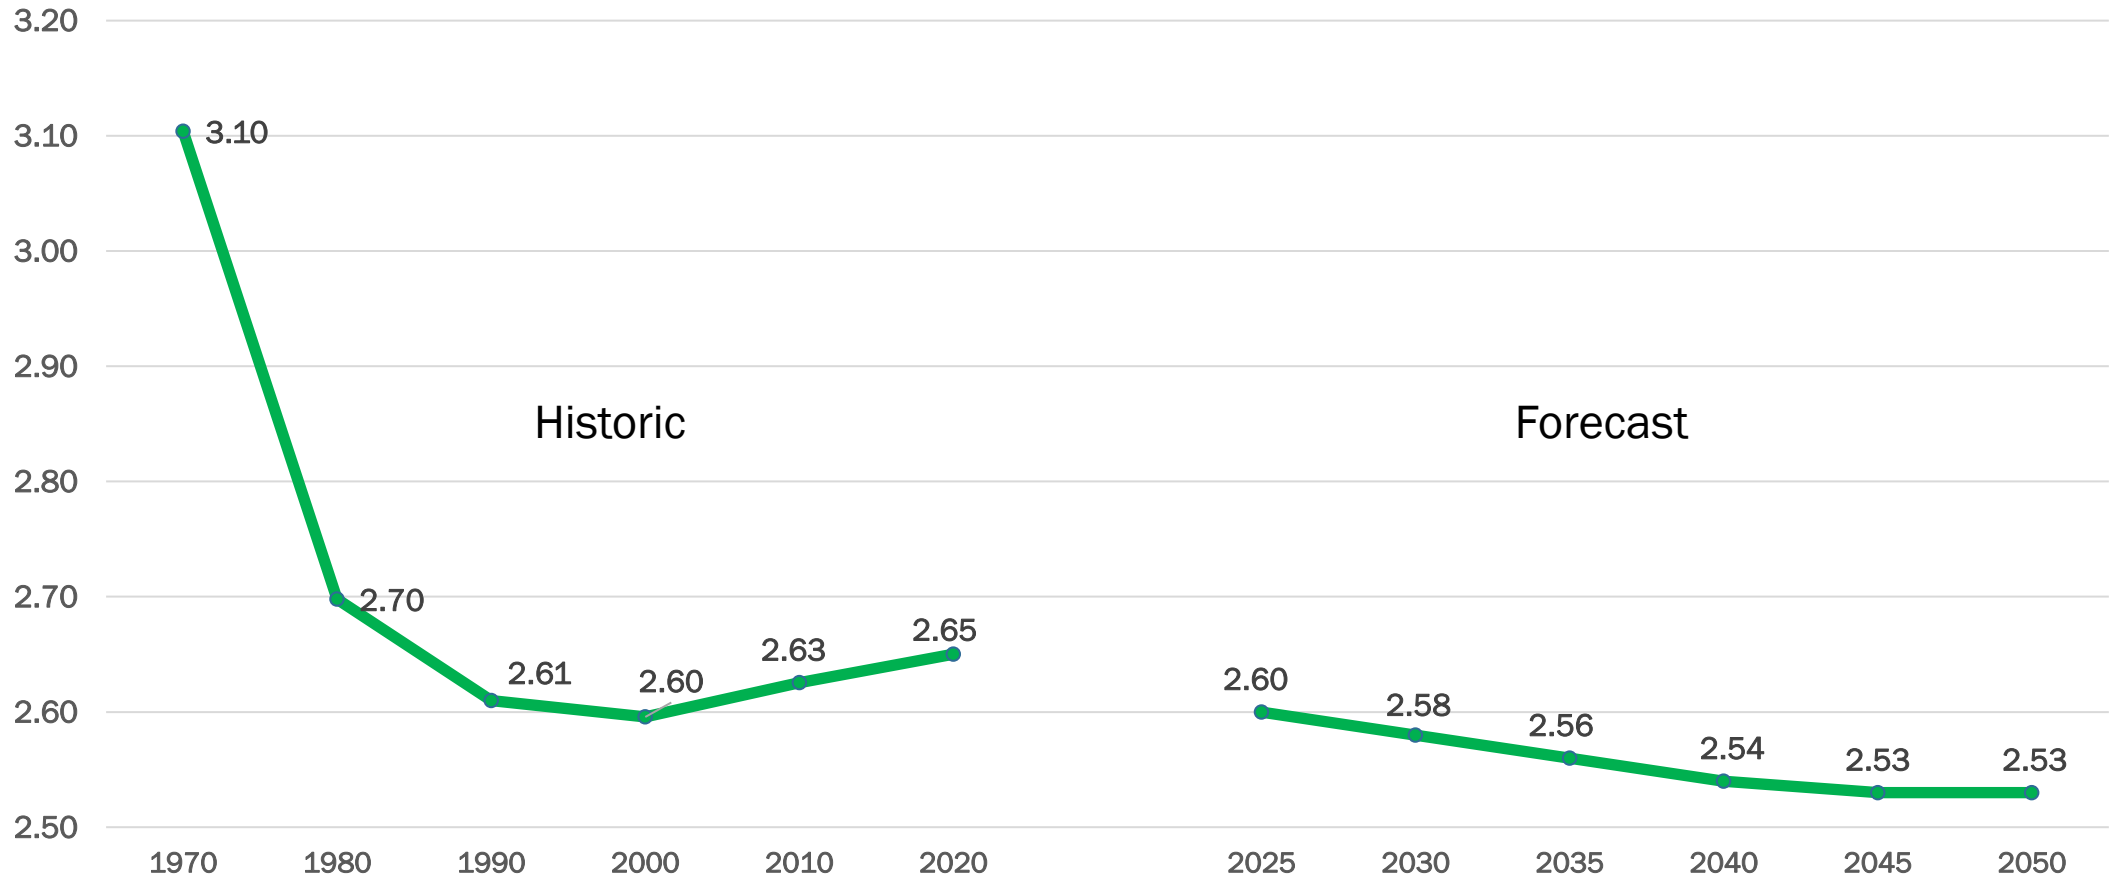

Median office square feet per worker (top 10 US metropolitan areas)

- With fewer employees returning to the office full-time, private sector companies are reevaluating space needs and the location of offices.
- Remote work is firmly established as the “new normal” and will have permanent effects on both office space use and travel patterns in the region.
- With fewer employees in the office full-time, companies are shifting to “hotel” models where space is collectively shared and reserved when employees are in the office (Source: ICF Technical Report).

Trends in the Final Round 10.0 Forecast

- The region is expected to add about 1 million jobs between 2020 and 2050. The largest increase in employment is anticipated between 2025 and 2030 when nearly 193,000 new jobs are expected.
 - Employment in all future years is approximately 200,000 fewer jobs than foreseen in Round 9.2, largely due to demographics and near-term COVID challenges.
- Three of every four new jobs (75%) are expected to be in “Service” industries. Business services would see the largest growth with 252,000 new jobs.
- The region’s population is expected to grow by nearly 1.5 million people during that same period, with the largest increase expected between 2025 and 2030 when nearly 293,000 people would be added.

- Steady population growth is foreseen in nearly all age cohorts; but the region's population is aging with the fastest rate of growth expected (+64%) in persons aged 65 years and above.
- Nearly 700,000 new households are expected with the greatest increase expected between 2025 and 2030 when nearly 134,500 new households are foreseen.
- Average household size – which fell significantly from 1970 through 2000, then grew slightly through 2020 – is expected to decline again beginning in 2025

Final Steps

- April 12, 2023 – COG Board of Directors briefed on the Cooperative Forecasting program and Round 10.0 regional projections
- April 21, 2023 – COG Planning Directors review and act on draft Round 10.0 jurisdictional forecasts
- May 10, 2023 – COG Board briefed on and plans to adopt the jurisdictional Round 10.0 Cooperative Forecasts at the June 2023 meeting.

Upon approval in June 2023, the Round 10.0 Cooperative Forecasts will be used extensively as the official growth projections for the COG region, including as the official land use growth assumptions for the Visualize 2050 Long-range Transportation Plan update.

Proposed Round 10.1 Cooperative Forecasts

- Round 10.1 is the first opportunity to update the Cooperative Forecast.

- TAZ checks for average household size greater than 5.0.
- TAZ checks for households without household population.
- Sum of final TAZ level data match final jurisdictional totals. (Before Round advances to the COG Board for action)
