

The Transit Hub News

Curated News Links from Around the Nation:

Do We Need to Advertise Transit?

Reece Martin

Nashville Mayor to Announce Transit Funding Ballot Plans

Axios Nashville

Mass. Governor Starts Down Important Road to More Transit Funding

MassLive

Atlanta Beltline, MARTA Move Forward with Rail Expansion

Atlanta Journal Constitution

Expanding Statewide Transit: Lessons from Colorado Streets.mm

Seattle's Sound Transit orders 33 electric double deck buses

Study: Subsidizing Transit Makes It More Efficient
Streetsblog USA

With California mandating zero emissions, Bay Area agencies are split on hydrogen vs. electric
TransitTalent

LOCAL NEWS LINKS: (hover over the image and Click)

LOCAL NEWS

Maryland to get \$213M from feds to replace Baltimore region's light rail cars

Light rail trains sit in the MTA Maryland, Central Light Rail Operations yard near North Avenue and the Jones Fall Expressway during an indefinite service suspension.

By DAN BELSON | dbelson@baltsun.com

PUBLISHED: February 20, 2024 at 11:30 a.m. | UPDATED: February 20, 2024 at 2:55 p.m.

Maryland's State Center could become Baltimore's best TOD

PLANNING ANALYSIS By Dan Malouff (Editorial Board) February 13, 2024

The Maryland State Center and its connections to transit. Image by the author using Google Earth.

Maryland transportation officials have ambitious climate goals - can they get there?

Daniel Zawodny 2/12/2024 5:20 p.m. EST

The Maryland Vehicle Emissions Inspection Program testing station near Annapolis on Sept. 1, 2023. (Pamela Wood)

The BRTTC is online! See link here.