

CURATED NATIONAL NEWS

FTA Report Finds Public Transit Ridership Up 17% Nationwide in 2023

Metro

Steady Growth Expected Across U.S. Public Transit in 2025

Center Square

Transit Expansion in the United States: A 2024 Roundup and a Look Ahead to 2025

The Transport Public

Microtransit Updates from GTrans, Metropolitan Council, Pueblo Transit

Mass Transit

Don't Shrink the Bus

Bloomberg

LA Metro Becomes First Transit Agency in U.S. to Equip its Entire Fleet of Active Buses with Enclosed, Protective Barriers

California Newswire

Op-Ed: Washington State Should Allow Riders to Serve on Transit Boards

The Urbanist

REGIONAL NEWS LINKS

State agencies' climate plans range from the ambitious to the mundane

Twenty-five state agencies have outlined their plans for helping Maryland combat climate change, in response to an executive order last year from Gov. Wes Moore (D) that directed agencies to develop plans to help...

Maryland Matters / Jan 13

Gov. Moore forecasts huge cuts to the state budget this spring

The legislative session opened Wednesday with pomp and circumstance, with Moore addressing both chambers and members publicly praising their parties' leaders. Ferguson and House Speaker Adrienne Jones wer...

MarylandReporter.com / Jan 9

Will new railcars be enough to restore faith in Baltimore's subway?

In 2025, the first of 78 new railcars will go into service as the Maryland Transit Administration begins replacing the original fleet. It's a nearly $557 million investment, mostly funded by the federal government.

The Baltimore Banner / Jan 7